WIFE IDENTIFIES BODY OF VICTIM OF HEAVY UNDERTOW

The body of a man recovered from the surf at Salada Beach, Thursday night of last week, by Constable S. A. Landini, of Colma, has been identified as that of Carl Kern, 4126 Twenty-sixth street, San Francisco, drowned while bathing October 24.

The identification was made at the office of Deputy Coroner Luella D. Pepper, Daly City, by Mrs. Kerns, widow of the dead man, who was forced to witness his death in the heavy undertow at the beach.

The young wife, unable to give aid to Kern as he made a heroic fight against being swept to his death beyond the breakers, called for assistance of passing motorists, but aid arrived too late.

The body, clad in a bathing suit, was brought to the offices of the deputy coroner in Daly City following a ten-day search of the beach by deputies under Constable Landini.

Kern was 34 years old and was accounted a strong swimmer. Death is believed to have resulted from a sudden attack of cramps.

The Daly City committee has begun work and expects to make an even better showing than last year, when Daly City subscribed $131.50, and Colma $21.

Some of the services performed by the San Mateo County Chapter from October 1, 1925, to October 1, 1926, were: Sixty ex-service men helped to the extent of $225; Veterans' hospital, Palo Alto, $614.17; 1,078 articles produced by volunteers at a cost of $225.35; Jefferson school district, which includes Daly City and Colma, $400 toward the salary of the school nurse and a new Ford.

The principal objectives of the Red Cross roll call for San Mateo county, as outlined in a statement from the headquarters of the San Mateo County Chapter, are: To secure money to carry on national and international work; to secure funds for local work; and to secure a larger and more democratic membership, which will enable the organization to continue as a representative of all the people.

Last year, ending June 30, 1926, there were 3,125,000 adult members, 334,210 of which were in the Pacific area of eight western states. Last year California increased its membership by 23,334.

SCIOTS BAND WINS HONORS

The Sciots band of San Mateo county carried off the second prize in the band contest at Santa Cruz last week, on the occasion of the convention of the Sciots. Last year the band won first prize. Fresno was awarded first honors in the contest between class A bands, and Pasadena first in class B bands. The convention will be held at Fresno next year, when the San Mateo band expects to again become champions in their class.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM DIES

Antonio Azaveda, of 91 Silver avenue, San Francisco, who was run down by an automobile at the Bay Shore yards near the Six Mile house, in San Mateo county, on October 2, died last Tuesday at the Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco. It is alleged that the automobile which struck Azaveda was driven by Lee Dun of Daly City. Azaveda was an employee of the railroad company.

FAST ELECTRIC TRAIN SERVICE FOR PENINSULA

Plans for rapid transit electric lines from Peninsula cities direct into a San Francisco downtown terminal way of the Municipal Railway of San Francisco, have been made public by City Engineer O'Shaughnessy, of San Francisco.

That city officials of San Francisco have for several years past studied the problem of a fast interurban electric train service direct into the heart of the city from peninsula points was revealed by the engineer.

The plan is necessary to insure extension of San Francisco's residential districts to the south, and legal difficulties heretofore in the path of such development have now been cleared away, it was stated.

The proposal as announced by the city engineer is to route five-car trains out Market street through the Twin Peaks tunnel, thence down through the Spring Valley property west of Junipero Serra boulevard south.

According to the plans the route through San Mateo county would be one-quarter mile west of El Camino Real. The road would be completed in eighteen months from the time work started.

It is estimated that $5,000,000 would be sufficient to construct the line. A charter amendment voted by the people permits San Francisco to build a railroad as a public utility in an adjoining county, and the recent favorable action on charter amendment No. 29 lifted the financial burden sufficiently, it is said, to warrant a $5,000,000 bond issue for such a project.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY SELECTS OFFICERS

On Tuesday evening in the club rooms adjoining St. Maximus church, the new officers of the Holy Name Society were installed. The new officers are: T. P. Moran, president; E. Willie, vice-president; A. J. Lindon, treasurer; J. Barn, secretary.

A program of activities for the next six months was drawn up. On Sunday morning the regular monthly financial statement was handed to the parishioners of St. Maximus. It showed a substantial reduction in the debt of the parish—$600. The program for the payment of the debt was drawn up. It was conservatively estimated that a $750 reduction can be made each month. This will clear the entire debt inside of a period of five years.

Last Thursday evening the first of the weekly social whists was held in the St. Maximus parish hall, under the direction of Mrs. M. Mac Donald. It was a splendid success. The social this week was held for the benefit of the St. Maximus Sunday school.

TAX COLLECTOR IS HONOR GUEST AT ANNUAL DINNER

Tax Collector Abrase McSweeney was in Daly City last Monday in order to accommodate the people of this section who desired to pay their taxes and did not have the time to journey to Redwood City. Mr. McSweeney and his deputies held forth at the Liberty bank during the day, taking care of all who desired to pay their taxes. It is hardly necessary to mention the obvious fact that they had a big cash business.

On Wednesday, Mr. McSweeney favored the people of Colma with his presence and gave them an opportunity to settle at least a part of their debt to the state and county.

At Colma, Mr. McSweeney is honored each year by a reception and dinner in his honor at the home of Mrs. E. Belli. This event was up to the usual standard this year.

STUDENT FREED FROM BLAME IN TRAGEDY NEAR BELMONT

William Gilbert, aged 22, son of W. H. Gilbert, defense attorney for Aimee McPherson, has been exonerated from any blame in connection with the death of John McGuire, also 22, of Long Beach, killed early Wednesday morning of last week when his automobile overturned at Belmont.

After Gilbert had given his version of the fatal automobile ride, and Sheriff T. C. McGovern had testified in favor of the two Stanford students, a coroners' jury agreed on a verdict of accidental death.

Gilbert testified that following a ride to San Jose, they were headed toward San Francisco, and that he fell asleep before reaching Belmont, and when he awoke he was in Mills Memorial hospital with a crushed chest.

Sheriff McGovern said that the condition of the county highway at the scene of the accident disclosed that the auto's brakes had been applied long before the auto overturned, after striking a dirt pile. His opinion was that the accident occurred when McGuire tried to avoid a collision with a car which suddenly entered the highway from an artery.

CRITICIZES TRUSTEES FOR GUARDING HIGHWAY TREES

Criticizing the attitude of the Burlingame board of trustees in refusing to consider the proposed future widening of El Camino Real through Burlingame from 60 to 124 feet, rooting up the stately avenue of eucalyptus trees and slashing the fronts off of residences, City Engineer M. M. O'Shaughnessy of San Francisco has written a letter to City Engineer James S. James of Burlingame, in which he states his views on the matter.

O'Shaughnessy declares that it is inevitable that the trees or any other obstructions which hinder peninsula traffic must go, and states that in his opinion the Burlingame trustees have small conception of future highway needs.

SAYS WIFE MADE SON POSE AS HER BROTHER

Because she required their 16-year-old son to pose as her brother in the presence of male friends, Jonas L. Bicknell, of Colma, wants a divorce from Mrs. Myrtle Bicknell, he alleges in a suit filed at Redwood City. The couple married in Fresno in January, 1910, and have three minor children, whose custody should be awarded to Bicknell, his complaint states.

Chinese Become Hit-and-Runners

Lewis White, of Burlingame, was badly injured when his automobile was struck by a machine containing four Chinese. After the crash the Chinamen disappeared, but were later captured and charged with reckless driving.

FAKER IS LANDED BEHIND THE BARS BY LOCAL OFFICER

Charged with swindling the California Fruit Market, at Burlingame, out of $31, and also victimizing merchants in Colma and San Francisco, Paul Marchelli, aged 48, is under arrest in San Francisco.

He was apprehended last Saturday night on the streets in San Francisco by Constable S. A. Landini of Colma, while he was stepping into a taxicab to attend a party.

Marchelli is accused of having represented himself as a government agent licensing Italian merchants as wine sellers. It is charged that he obtained checks for $1 a fee and then raised the amounts.

The man who swindled the Burlingame merchant entered the market and explained that he was representing Uncle Sam in the issuance of permits for selling wine. The only thing necessary was for the merchant to make out a check for $1 and the license would be forwarded from Washington.

Just as the merchant was about to do as directed, a woman accomplice of the swindler rushed into the market and demanded to be waited on immediately. The man urged the merchant to accommodate her and he would fill in the check. In doing so he left plenty of room to write in "Thirty" before the "One Dollar."

Marchelli has been identified by Julius Lazzarini, of Colma, as the man who swindled him.

Marchelli variously described himself to police as a chemist, a former police official of Genoa, Italy, and a grape buyer for an eastern syndicate.

On some occasions he is alleged to have represented himself as an agent for the California Wine Protective Association, offering for a fee of one dollar to make the merchant a member of an organized movement to legalize the manufacture of wine for home use. In these cases he also requested payment by check, and later raised the amount, it is charged.

DUMBARTON BRIDGE TO BE OPENED EARLY NEXT MONTH

It is announced by John G. Sutton, general manager of the Dumbarton Highway Bridge Corporation, that the Dumbarton bridge, spanning San Francisco bay just south of Redwood City, will be opened to the public early next month. This bridge is being completed at a cost of $2,000,000 for traffic of automobiles and other vehicles.

Special ceremonies under auspices of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce with co-operation of city and county officials in all parts of the peninsula are being planned for the opening day.

It is estimated that over 20,000 automobiles will pass over the bridge on the opening day. The bridge, constructed by private capital is 6,305 feet in length. It is 24 feet wide, with ample width for three cars abreast. The construction consists of 226-foot steel spans, with concrete floors over deep water and with concrete trestle approaches making a total length of 6,305 feet. The entire length is paved. One of the steel spans will lift vertically to permit the passage of vessels.

FIRE ALARM RESULTS IN SEIZURE OF STILL

When San Bruno police broke into a supposedly burning garage at San Bruno early in the morning, they discovered two 150-gallon stills in full operation, while Warren Newell and Carl Colombo both of Millbrae, are alleged to have been busily engaged in bottling the alcohol derivative.

Seeing flames apparently shooting through the roof of the garage, neighbors telephoned the fire department. Police took the fire apparatus out on a still alarm. The police broke down the doors only to find the pair busily making liquor. The flames had come from fires lighted under the stills. They had shot up through the stove-pipe, which extended only a few inches above the roof.

Car Overturns, Three Injured

Three persons were injured when an automobile driven by Michael Botte, of South San Francisco, went over an embankment on the Bay Shore road just north of South San Francisco. Botte received severe lacerations of the scalp; little Ellen Maderes, of Oakland, sustained a broken arm, and Miss Margaret Lewis, of Oakland, was cut and bruised.

Redwood City Publication Wins Prize

The Sequoia Times, bi-monthly publication of the students of the Sequoia union high school of Redwood City, was awarded the silver cup for the best school publication among schools with an enrollment of less than 1,000 at the annual convention of the California Press Association held at Stanford University last Saturday.

CONFERENCE ON UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS TO BE HELD

Calling of the second conference of the California Municipal Traffic League for the advancement of the program of adoption by cities throughout the state of a standardized traffic code is announced by Supervisor Charles F. Todd, of San Francisco, president of the League.

The meeting will be held in Fresno, November 18, 19 and 20, and invitations have been issued to all of the 251 incorporated cities in the state, as well as to every county, to send representatives of both their legislative and law enforcement departments.

The uniform traffic ordinance proposed by the California State Automobile Association for Northern and Central California cities, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California in the south, has been submitted by Supervisor Todd to every municipality and county in the state for consideration. This ordinance, drafted by the legal departments of the two automobile clubs, will be the main subject of discussion at the Fresno meeting, Todd said.

"The campaign to promote public safety by securing uniformity in the adoption and enforcement by California cities of traffic laws and regulations will be expanded to include every incorporated city in the state," Todd said. He explained that at the uniform traffic ordinance conference called by the San Francisco board of supervisors in San Francisco last July, from which the California Municipal Traffic League was organized, many cities were unrepresented.

It is expected that the representation at Fresno will be state-wide and complete, and that such an impetus will be given the uniform traffic idea that the ordinance proposed by the State Automobile Association may soon be in effect in every city in the state. Then motorists and pedestrians alike will have the benefit of a situation whereby they meet the same traffic regulations in whatever city in the state they may be in.

MONTHLY MEETING OF SECOND DISTRICT P.T.A.

The executive board of the Second District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, held its regular monthly meeting yesterday, November 11, at the Hotel Bellevue, San Francisco. Chairmen of the various departments gave their reports and special reports on conferences held throughout the month. As the meeting occurred during National Education week, educational matters were stressed. Mrs. W. J. Hayes, president, presided.

Mrs. Hayes reported considerable activity throughout the district during the month. Berkeley, San Francisco and East Alameda Federations held schools of instruction for their members. Oakland Federation had a press conference, and Richmond a reciprocity dinner. San Mateo Federation's school of instruction will be held in Daly City on November 19.

Mrs. R. L. Cardiff, third vice-president of the state organization, will hold a regional conference in San Luis Obispo. Mrs. Jerome Cross, of Santa Rosa, held a conference at Sebastopol on health, November 9, while Mrs. J. Stuart Moore, of Lathrop, held one at Sonoma on the same date.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO HAS A RAT PROBLEM

South San Francisco's rat menace, due to improper garbage disposal, has reached a point where the rodents cannot be exterminated by poison, it has been reported to South San Francisco trustees by Dr. T. C. Doak, city health officer.

The city rubbish dump has reached such a condition that more than 150 complaints against it are reported by motorists annually to Dr. William C. Hassler, city health officer of San Francisco, it has been reported by the head of the San Francisco health department to Dr. Doak.

Dr. Doak has expressed the belief that the hordes of disease carrying rats have reached such numbers that a war of extermination by poisoning will result only in driving them into other quarters.

Officials of the state health board have promised to assist, and will arrive in South San Francisco in the near future to inspect the situation and assist in solving the problems involved.

Eat Less and Live Longer, Says Lawyer

By W. W. O'BRIEN

(Noted Criminal Lawyer of Chicago.)

Business and professional men working under high nervous pressure do not live as long as men whose pursuits keep them out of doors and active. Examine the records of longevity and you will find that on the average the longest-lived men are soldiers, sailors and farmers, all avocations which tend to keep a man at his physical best.

Man, in general, rolls down the hill of life fastest when his figure is rotund. "Leanness and longevity" is a good axiom for business men to remember. If office workers would eat a little less, they would add years to their lives.

Overfeeding is as dangerous to adults as underfeeding is to children. Foods difficult to digest, or which overstimulate, should be avoided by persons whose work does not require any particular amount of physical exercise. Yet thousands of business men eat as much as or more than men who do manual labor. And, inevitably, nature rebels and sickness results.

Many of the country's foremost executives eat but two meals a day, breakfast and dinner in the evening. They seek to keep the organs of the body from becoming clogged. Thousands of other business men confine themselves at noontime to custards, puddings, soups and other sustaining dishes made with milk, or evaporated milk, which is milk in its most sterile form, from which 60 per cent of the water has been removed by evaporation. Such a diet is light and readily assimilated.

There is no more necessary lesson to be learned by the brain worker than how to keep well and healthy by proper attention to food habits.

When, in 1882, parliament passed the act which practically limited the development of electricity to municipalities, the largest generating unit was under 20 kilowatts, and the maximum possible radius of supply was less than a mile. Contrast this with the freedom of development in the United States, and it is not hard to see why England is still "in the dark" when it comes to the use of electricity. "This premature legislation was intended to protect the community against some of the imaginary evils of private ownership, quite overlooking the fact that the great industrial success of Great Britain in the nineteenth century was entirely due to private initiative and capital."

What has been the result of this shortsighted legislation? England has as many different types of electric plants, equipment and service as the kinds of pickles which an American manufacturer advertises. London is divided up into central districts among local authorities, and has some forty distributing and selling agencies with separate managements, various supply voltages and rates. Parliament very unwisely insisted on each of the central districts in London having two systems of electricity supply from separate companies.

This multiplicity of small authorities with their various systems and petty jealousies has prevented the really big business men of the country from taking much interest in electric development. Manufacturers have not had the opportunities for designing and supplying the large apparatus which modern practice demands, or for using the mass production methods of the various appliances and apparatus required by the consumers, owing to the numerous supply voltages.

Most of the cities and towns are using their electricity undertakings as profit producers to lower taxes. High rates are charged to raise revenue. As only about 10 per cent of the people are electricity consumers, 90 per cent benefit by this insidious electricity tax and electric development for the benefit of the people lags.

Think of American cities with a number of competing municipal plants to furnish local service. Under such a system interconnection and long distance transmission is impossible, because the taxpayer in one town has no particular interest in seeing their electric service extended to another town. Interconnected systems such as we enjoy, and which from a few central generating plants distribute electricity over hundreds and thousands of miles of territory, to the city and the farm, would be unheard of.

Mr. Wright is not only performing a service for England, but he is performing a great service for the United States in making this comparison of electric development in the two countries. Americans can see what private initiative and enterprise has done and is doing here, in comparison with the policies which have strangled electric development in England.

America recognizes electricity as a necessary natural monopoly in different sections of the country, but protects the people through public regulation which encourages development. England, in order to destroy an imaginary evil monopoly, enforces competition which kills development and prevents extension of electric service to all the people.

ELECTRIC SERVICE
HERE AND ABROAD

Can legislation passed on the theory of protecting the public, actually react to the detriment of the people?

After reading the conclusions of Arthur Wright, an engineer who has had long experience in constructing electric power stations in England, and who has just made an investigation to see why electric development in England lags so far behind the United States, it would seem that it could.

In England, with 40,000,000 population in an area only slightly larger than Massachusetts, an ideal territory in which to distribute electricity, only 10 per cent of the people receive electric service in their homes. Mr. Wright points out that shortly after electricity first came into commercial use, England, in 1882, passed the notorious Electric Light Act of that year, which gives preference to municipalities that sought franchises to supply electricity. This threw the development of electric light and power practically into the hands of local public officials.

The government electricity commissioners, says Mr. Wright, are mostly technical engineers of high standing, instead of experienced business men as in the public service commissions in America. They devote their attention chiefly to the technical running of the various electricity undertakings, and to the framing of restrictive regulations, rather than to assisting in every possible way the commercial development of electricity in the country at large.

When, in 1882, parliament passed the act which practically limited the development of electricity to municipalities, the largest generating unit was under 20 kilowatts, and the maximum possible radius of supply was less than a mile. Contrast this with the freedom of development in the United States, and it is not hard to see why England is still "in the dark" when it comes to the use of electricity. "This premature legislation was intended to protect the community against some of the imaginary evils of private ownership, quite overlooking the fact that the great industrial success of Great Britain in the nineteenth century was entirely due to private initiative and capital."

A SERIOUS OFFENSE

As the train stopped at a small town in Virginia, the mail bag was thrown to a negro boy of perhaps fifteen years, who started off at a brisk run for the post office. But a larger boy, turning a corner, suddenly ran into the mail carrier and overturned him. As soon as he recovered himself, the youngster turned to the aggressor and said:

Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache, misery in the kidney region, mean that you have been eating which create acids, says a new authority. An excess of acids overworks the kidneys in effort to filter it from the blood. When your kidneys get sluggish you must relieve them, relieve your bowels, remove the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, spells; your stomach sours, is coated and when the weather is cloudy, full of sediment, is often get sore, water scalds are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. Consult a good, reliable physician once or get from your pharmacist four ounces of Jad. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act. His famous salts is made from lemon juice and lemon juice, with lithia, and has been years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving weakness. Salts is inexpensive, cannot induce a habit, makes a delightful, effervescent water drink. Drink lots of it.

HUGGINS FINDS GEHRIG USEFUL

Columbia Player Fills Big Gap at Initial Sack

You can't freeze Lou Gehrig of the New York Americans in winter, and perhaps that is why he is so cool in summer when he faces the best pitchers of his circuit and gets hits off all comers. Gehrig, a New Yorker, spends his winters at home. Even with the temperature at zero, Gehrig never wears an overcoat. He never wears a vest. At an early age, Gehrig swore a vendetta against both. No wonder he is so self-possessed against pitchers. Any man who can buck New York winter temperatures and cold, biting winds without an overcoat cannot be disturbed by a mere pitcher. Miller Huggins picked up Gehrig from Columbia university several years ago. Gehrig, as a collegian, was a southpaw pitcher, also performed in the outfield and had some vagrant experience at first base. When Lou came to the Yankees, Huggins refused to waste Gehrig's potential power as a batter and decided to groom him to succeed Wallie Pipp at first base. It was necessary for Gehrig to see some service other than on the Yankees bench. Therefore, Huggins sent him to an Eastern league club. In 1925, Gehrig went South with the

Lou "Buster" Gehrig.

New York team, ripe enough to stay. When Wallie Pipp showed signs of fading, Gehrig went in. This year he was the regular first baseman from the start.

Pitchers united in saying that Gehrig is as dangerous a batter as there is in the circuit. Some hate to see him come up there for Lou—partial to home runs and other varieties of extra base hits, any dimension of which is likely to break up a ball game if there are runners on base. Lou has a distressing habit, so far as the rival clubs are concerned, of busting one when runs are in the offing.

Brown-Eyed Persons Are Leaders at Golf Game

Golf instructors rather generally hold the view that brown-eyed persons play better golf than blue-eyed and gray-eyed persons. John Ball, who probably has won more championships than any other golfer, has brown eyes. James Braid, Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Abe Mitchell and Cyril Tolley also are brown-eyed. The two great golfers among women, Miss Joyce Wethered and Miss Cecil Leitch, also have brown eyes. Strong eyes are indispensable to golf, and players who are able to see well in a strong wind without having tears come into their eyes and who do not suffer from the glare of the sun have a great advantage. But oculists fail to agree that brown eyes are necessarily stronger and better eyes for golf than those of other colors.

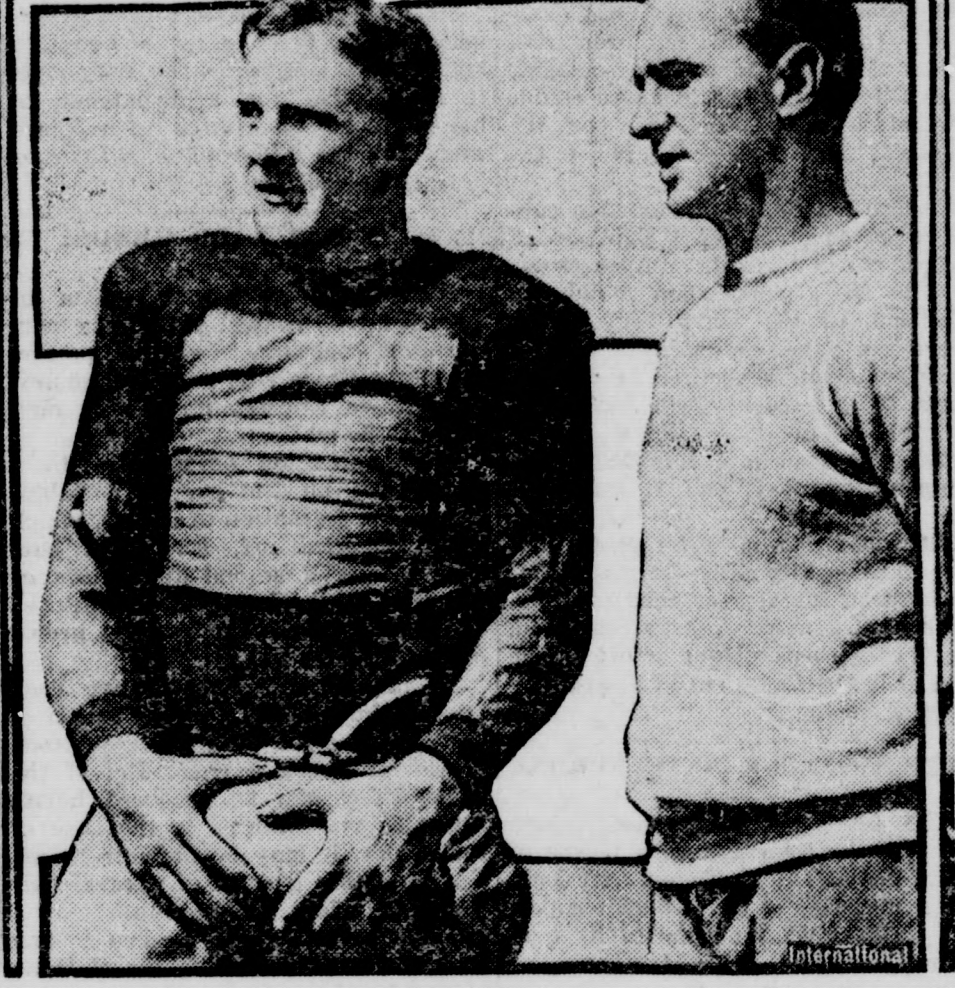

Chester I. Mead Modest as Iowa Football Star

The name of Chester I. Mead, who is Iowa line coach, stands beside that of Devine, Locke, Brookins and Laude as one of the most modest Hawkeye athletes. He was guard on the championship football teams of 1921 and 1922, and was so modest that he did not mind if credit for playing all of the classic Yale game went to another man. Press reports from New Haven after that 6 to 0 Iowa victory carried the name of Kriz, a substitute in the Hawkeye lineup at the right guard position. When, on the Monday after the game, the Hawkeyes, heroes of the campus, returned to Iowa City, Mead was asked why he didn't play. "I played all of the game," was his reply. "But what's the use of mentioning it as long as some man was in there doing the work."

Big Bill Edwards Is a Real Football Veteran

Bill Edwards, president of the American league of professional football clubs, who has been in the game since 1896, when a freshman at Princeton, where he was captain of the varsity. In 1899, and who for years was a leading official of the East, has put the burden of playing clean football squarely up to his teams. "The traditions of football are old and sacred," Edwards says. "I shall have no pity for the player who shows any evidence of hurting football by his action on or off the field. See to it that you keep yourself above criticism."

Drop-Kick Record Set by Payne Still Stands

A record that has stood for three collegiate generations challenges the kicking talent which the 1926 football season will uncover. Thirteen years ago, Mark Payne, a halfback on the Dakota Wesleyan university football team, made a 63-yard dropkick against Northern Normal of Aberdeen, S. D., on the latter's field, and none of the phenoms uncovered in the more recent years of football's greater popularity have come within seven yards of the mark. Payne's powerful boot fractured a record which had stood for 17 years—a 62-yard dropkick which Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin made against Northwestern in 1898. But since 1904 only three men have made a dropkick from behind the fifty-four-yard line. Robertson of Dartmouth dropkicked 54 yards against Cornell in 1919, and Lamont Johnson of St. Mary's college, Kansas, dropkicked 55 yards in 1925.

Naval Academy Star

One of the Naval academy's football stars this year is Lloyd, prep school star, who is now playing end. He weighs 200 pounds, towers 6 feet 2 inches in his socks, and is speedy enough to run the hurdles for the Navy track team.

Manush Beats Out Ruth for A. L. Batting Honors

Heinie Manush, youthful outfielder, has gained the distinction of being the leading batsman of the American league for 1926. He beat out Babe Ruth, matching an average of .380 to .372 for the Babe. Manush gained the throne held last year by a teammate, Harry Heilmann, who finished this season in fourth place, with an average of .363. The other regular Detroit outfielder, Bob Fothergill, is third, with .364. Hargrave, Cincinnati catcher, seems likely to be the National league's champion batsman, with an average of .353.

Catcher Muddy Ruel Is Little in Weight Only

You'd think that to catch a delivery like that of Walter Johnson a big man would be necessary, but Muddy Ruel, who receives for him, weighs only 145 pounds. He was asked one day how he did it, and his reply was a strange one. He said that Walter pitches both a feather and a heavy ball and not apparently by design. The feather ball, so called, is the easiest thing in baseball to catch but the heavy ball bores and grinds its way in a manner that makes it hard to hold and painful to stop. But little Ruel handles 'em all.

Amazing Improvement in Mrs. Jester's Health Surprises Friends. Serious Ailments Caused by Nervous Breakdown Relieved and Strength Restored by Tanlac. Looks and Feels Better Than Ever

"Tanlac has certainly done wonders for me; I cannot praise it enough," declares Mrs. T. D. Jester, 1268 Pennsylvania Avenue, San Diego, Calif. "I had suffered a nervous breakdown, and for many months afterward I continued to get worse and worse, despite all the different nerve medicines I tried. Nothing seemed to help until I tried Tanlac. "I was as near to being a complete nervous and physical wreck as I could be, without entirely collapsing. The slightest noise would make me want to scream, and after retiring it would be hours before I could sleep. I would awaken with terrible nervous headaches and the slightest exertion would tire me out so that I would be trembling. I lost weight and appetite. I tried Tanlac with little expectation of improvement. "Before I had taken all of the first bottle, I developed a ravenous appetite, and was sleeping better. I continued to improve rapidly and felt like a different person entirely. In less than three weeks I had gained seven pounds! Later, my weight went up from 105 to 125 pounds. HOMESTEAD ANNEXATION PLAN MEETS DEFEAT

Annexation of the Homestead district to San Mateo was defeated by three votes at a bitterly contested special election held Wednesday. The vote stood 44 for annexation and 47 against.

Wednesday's election was the second to be conducted in the Homestead district within the last six months. The measure was decisively defeated at the first election, but was expected to carry Wednesday.

With the annexation question settled, residents of the district are now turning their attention toward the incorporation of Beresford. The petition will come up next Monday before the board of supervisors. If Beresford is incorporated, it will include the Homestead section.

John J. O'Brien, another candidate for trustee of Belmont, who filed a second election contest, following that for the recount of the tie between Pennington and Roussel, was unable to gain in the recount, which affirmed his total at 87, the number accredited him in the official returns.

THIRD CLASS POSTMASTERS SEEKING CIVIL SERVICE

Everybody knows the postmaster, and everybody expects efficient and courteous service from him. There are four classes of postmasters. The third class are those whose salaries range from $1,100 to $2,300 per annum, depending upon the receipts of the office. The National League of District Postmasters (third and fourth classes) is urging Congress to place third class under civil service. Fourth class are already in, but third class are appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate for a four-year term only. No matter how efficient they may be, nor how much their patrons desire their retention, they are not retained unless the Congressman belonging to the party in power endorses them.

This practice, their organization claims, is not conducive to the best interests of the postal service in the communities served by the third class.

There are more than 11,000 third class postmasters in the United States. More than 9,000 of them own the equipment used—post office boxes, etc. The rent of the boxes goes to the government, and when the postmaster is succeeded by another he has no market for his equipment, for which he has paid.

Third class postmasters say there is no incentive to make the postal business a life work, nor to equip their offices so as to make them places in which the communities and the government may be proud. They point out that the post office is the biggest business institution in the world, and should be conducted in accordance with established business principles. Faithful and efficient service should be rewarded by retention and the incompetents and careless should be fired. Economy in the administration of these offices would result, say the postmasters, because a turnover when the administration at Washington changes is a costly procedure. Trained, experienced men and women are replaced by those who have rarely, if ever, been inside a post office, and the postal service in the community suffers while the new postmaster is mastering the details and learning the hundreds of rules and regulations that govern his office.

All branches of the postal service, except first, second and third class postmasters, are under civil service, and nobody wants to return to the old spoils system in the people's business. President Coolidge has recommended to Congress that postmasters be put in the civil service, as have his predecessors in office. The Postmaster General says it should be done. But it requires an act of Congress. The postmasters believe the public, which pays the bill, is concerned only with good service, and that Congress will act when the public expresses its approval.

NEW FERRY BOAT NAMES SELECTED

The names "Stockton," "Fresno" and "Tahoe" will adorn the new all steel auto ferry boats which will be placed in operation by the Southern Pacific Company on San Francisco bay next spring.

The names were selected to honor representative communities of California not already included in the company's fleet of twenty-three ferry boats. The first boat will be completed about March 1, 1927, the second April 15, and the third about six weeks later.

The new boats will be the largest and most modern Diesel electric driven ferry boats in existence, and each will have a capacity of 95 to 100 automobiles. The hulls of the boats will be of steel and a new switching device will permit the pilot to control the propelling power direct from the pilot house.

ALASKAN WOOD PULP

For several years the newspaper industry of the United States has viewed with deep concern the growing scarcity of timber suitable for newsprint paper, for which it must depend on Canada to a large extent.

Annual importation of newsprint paper now exceeds $100,000,000, in addition to pulp wood and wood pulp combined of almost equal value.

It is some satisfaction, therefore, that in a recent statement, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur declares the potentialities of the wood pulp industry in Alaska is tremendous. These possibilities were discovered through the aerial survey of Alaska by aviators of the navy, which has been in progress during the past year.

Through observations and photographs this survey discloses almost limitless quantities of timber suitable for paper making as well as potential waterpower sites where this timber might be converted into pulp.

If it shall be found possible to utilize these vast resources economically, it will prove a great benefit to the newspaper and printing industry, as well as an important factor in the development of Alaska.

OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN FINDS OLD-FASHIONED HELP GROWING SCARCE

From the Journal of Electricity comes the story of the rude awakening of an old-fashioned woman who, not having to do her own work, had seen no necessity for the new-fangled labor-saving devices. She lost the faithful servant who used to come at call and do the washing, ironing and general housework, and, not realizing how times had changed, thought it would be easy to replace the vanished jewel. But, says the chronicler:

"When the applicants came to answer her advertisement for help, they gave her the surprise of her married life. Each applicant for the job asked her if she had an electric washing machine, and most of them quit, or did not even start to work for her, when she revealed that here was a household as yet unmodernized."

The bill to be presented at the New State Theatre tomorrow (Saturday), November 13, includes Edmund Lowe and Alma Rubens in "The Winding Stair," in addition to a comedy, a cartoon and other attractions.

Keep Fit!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

To be well, you must keep the blood stream free from impurities. If the kidneys lag, allowing body poisons to accumulate, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and aching. A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. If you have reason to suspect improper kidney functioning, try Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Users praise them throughout the United States. Ask your neighbor!

Gilbert Lee Barham, or "Gillie" Barham, as he was familiarly known in Chico for the last half a century, who died in a Woodland hospital a short time ago, established the first telephone exchange in Chico thirty-four years ago.

John S. Taylor, now Santa Rosa's oldest citizen at 98, went to the polls to vote for candidates and amendments. This has become something of a habit with Taylor. He has gone to the polls without missing an election of any kind at a general, state, county, city, school district or township for 76 years.

Shortage of cotton pickers remains an acute condition in Merced county, despite the efficacious results of the marshaling of laborers by the Agricultural Labor Bureau of the San Joaquin valley, said A. The sum of $40,000 has been allotted by the state for construction of a highway approach to the Solano pier of the Vallejo bridge across Carquinez Strait. Work on the road is expected to start soon, as all surveys and estimates have been approved. The work will be under the direction of the recently organized Solano-Napa County Road District.

One of the scarcest things to be found in a state penitentiary is a fat criminal. Making this claim B. B. Meek of Oroville, former member of the State Board of Prison Directors, declared that during his eight years as one of state parole agency he observed over 4,000 convicts at Folsom and San Quentin prisons and saw only one actual fat man among them.

Scientific information gained during the World War is being used at Turlock, in an experiment in the extermination of noxious weeds. Master Sergeant F. M. Nash of the chemical warfare service is trying out chlorine gas as a means of eradicating Japanese heliotrope or "blue weed." Holes twenty inches deep are drilled in the ground and blown. Chlorine gas is then introduced into the shaken lower levels by means of a hose. By next year it will be possible to determine whether or not the gas can be used to destroy the weeds.

Completion of the new long-distance telephone cable of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company between the San Francisco Bay area and Sacramento was celebrated recently when the last splice in the big cable was made at Cordelia. Company and public officials participated in the exercises. Approximately $2,500,000 has been spent on the new line, which is 90 miles long and carries 275 talking lines between the Bay area and Crockett and 135 talking lines through to Sacramento. Enough wire to circle the earth one and one-half times is contained in this cable, which weighs about 2,000 tons and is supported upon 2,000 poles.

Despite the generally held theory that Chinese are extensive users of narcotic drugs, the state narcotic report, which will be submitted to the Legislature this winter, indicates that Americans and Mexicans constitute by far the largest percentage of "dope" addicts in California. A survey of narcotic law convictions over a period of six months in Los Angeles disclosed that 38.5 per cent of total violators were Mexicans and that 27.5 per cent were white Americans. For the same period 18 per cent were found to be American negroes, while the Chinese totaled only 13 per cent. Other nationalities made up a balance of 3 per cent.

In a rude bear trap made of logs Harry A. Cleland and James A. Cleland, Shingletown, Shasta county, caught about the biggest bear ever seen in the mountains in this region. Two by six scantlings were spiked to the trap door with sixty penny nails. The bear was ripping off these scantlings when he was discovered and shot to death in the trap of logs.

There is under construction at the college of agriculture, Davis, a new type of earth building known as "piled-terre," or rammed earth. This building material is centuries old, having been used in many countries. However, due to the abundance of other building materials it has never been very popular in this country. There are, though, a few buildings especially on the Atlantic Coast where this type of construction was used.

H. Dana Bowers, in charge of the grounds at the University Farm at Davis, says there is a very simple and speedy method of establishing a lawn on terrace and slopes. This has always been a difficult problem, due to the fact that it is hard to keep the seed in one place long enough for it to take root. However, in place of seeding, or using sod, the sack or burlap method of establishing the lawn is both quicker and easier.

Minute observations intended to more definitely establish if possible a relationship between the great redwoods of the coast country and the "big trees" of the Sequoia National Park are now being made in Sequoia Park by Major Mason, conservation forester of Oregon and member of the Save-the-Redwoods League. Superintendent John R. White of the national park has accompanied the expert to the Garfield grove.

A large quantity of fertilizer has been used during the year and Ostendorf is planning to spend $15,000 for barnyard and commercial fertilizer for immediate use.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
COPYRIGHT BY WILSON NEWSPAPER UNION

PORCUPINE'S BROTHER

"Once upon a time," began daddy, "there lived way off in the woods—the dense, black woods where people seldom go—a family of porcupines.

"Now, you know, of course, that porcupines have long, sharp quills that look dangerous.

"But they are their only real means of protection, and everything that lives in the woods must have some protection, either of coloring or of a way of defending themselves against enemies or of hiding or keeping very quiet.

"The porcupines are really very mild and most kindly by nature.

"They must have those quills if they are to keep safe in the deep woods. "And it is in the deep woods that they want to live.

"Some animals have sharp claws or sharp teeth or are very big and strong—something to save them from harm in the animal world, though men and their guns are the most dangerous enemies of all and the hardest to combat.

"But the porcupines have their quills, and they just have to spread themselves out with these sharp-pointed quills in the air when they see any unfriendly animal, and the creature usually runs in fear.

"One time a mother and daddy porcupine had some beautiful little porcupine children—at least they thought they were very beautiful—and were very proud of them.

"But the youngest was not very strong; neither were his quills very sharp-pointed.

"So his mother and daddy and his other little brothers and sisters made a great pet of little Billy Porcupine as he was called.

"Whenever Billy wanted to go anywhere one of his brothers or sisters always went along with him to see that no harm came to him.

"One day Billy Porcupine was invited to a porcupine children's party. "Only very young porcupines were invited, so Billy was the only one invited out of his family.

His mother fixed him all up nicely for the party and brushed his quills to make them look as well as possible, and off he started with his biggest brother.

"Billy Porcupine was awfully excited, as he loved parties. "But they had not gone very far when a great rumble was heard through the woods.

"Oh, what is that?" cried Billy Porcupine, and before his brother had time to answer, what should they see coming toward them but a great big lion.

"The lion spied Billy first, and, seeing his quills weren't very strong, he thought to himself, 'I'll soon do away with that delicate little morsel!'

"But he hadn't seen Billy's brother, who quickly showed Billy back of him and stood in front of the lion with his quills sticking straight out.

"Then the big lion began to tremble as he looked at the sharp, long quills of Billy's brother.

He saw he couldn't get at Billy without attacking Billy's brother, and so the great big lion turned away from the little porcupine, shivering with fear at the mere thought of those awful quills of Billy's brother, and ran.

"So through his sharp quills he saved his brother's life, and how happy the porcupine family felt at Billy's rescue I needn't tell you."

Information on Freight

Little Johnny was seeking information from his father.

"Father," he asked, "freight is goods that are sent by water or land, isn't it?"

"That's right, son."

"Well then, why is it that the freight that goes by ship is called a cargo, and when it goes by car it is called a shipment?"

And then Johnny wondered why father put on his hat and sauntered outside to get the air.—Staley Journal.

Wanted Trigonometry

A keen-eyed mountaineer led his overgrown son into a country schoolhouse. "This here boy's arter learnin'," he announced. "What's yer bill o' fare?"

"My department, sir," replied the professor, "consists of arithmetic, algebra, geometry and trigonometry."

"That'll do," interrupted the old man, "load him up with trigonometry. He's the only poor shot in the family."

CENSUS REVEALS ASTONISHING FACT

8,549,511 Working Women in United States

MRS. W. M. BAILEY

Many Say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Keep Them Fit to Work

8,549,511 women would be a vast army. According to the 1920 Census of Manufactures, that is the number of women and girls employed in all trades in the United States.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This army of women travels on its general health. Every working girl knows that time lost through illness seldom is paid for and seldom can be made up. Employers demand regularity. If she wants to keep her job or hopes for a better one, she must guard her health.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My system was weak and run-down, and I was tired. I was this way for five years or more. I read your advertisement in the papers and I decided to try your medicine, the Vegetable Compound, but I did not begin to take it regularly until after I was married. I got so much good from it that I feel fine and have gained in weight. I work in a broom shop, but my work is not so hard on me now, and I keep my own house, and work my garden, too. I am telling all my friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it has helped me."—Mrs. W. M. BAILEY, R. F. D. No. 5, Box 27, Atlanta, Georgia.

Missouri Woman Helped

Parkville, Mo.—"I am proud to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so ill that I could not lie down at night. Then I got my husband to go to the store and buy me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was up and around before the first bottle was gone, although I only weighed about ninety pounds. I took six or eight bottles and was able to do all my housework, washing and ironing, take care of my five boys, and tend to my chickens and garden, where before I had to hire my washing and part of my housework."—Mrs. ANNA COLE, R. R. 2, Parkville, Missouri.

Good Works

Alonzo Potter, president of the B. B. Brother movement, preached in New York a religion of good works against a merely passive religion.

"Why, my friends," he cried, "there is almost as much difference between being good and doing good as there is between being a man and doing a man."—Minneapolis News.

ABOUT WOMEN

Alvin Slinger, of Knoxville, who was married at the age of 13, is a grandmother at 27. Her mother was married at 13. Mrs. Madelein Jaffray, a Canadian now attached to the staff of a hospital, is said to have been the first woman from the American continent to be wounded in the World War. She won several decorations in the war, including the Croix de Guerre. Mrs. Ida Loveland, of Arkansas, is famous as a maker of gowns, from the sale of which she paid off a farm mortgage and in putting four children through college. Mrs. Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the former British premier, expected to be a candidate for parliament in the next general election. Mrs. Marjorie Wilson, of Waterbury, N. Y., who has been prominent in East Relief work, has returned to Persia, where she is the director of an orphanage.

Mrs. Violette Jarrett, of London, refused a legacy of $30,000 left her by the late Duke of Orleans, saying that she was already wealthy and did not need it.

Mrs. Jay Gould, who inherited more than eight million dollars from her father, the late Franklyn Manville, asbestos king, is now said to be America's richest actress.

Miss Ann Moclair is the latest addition to the growing list of women lawyers in Ireland. In Dublin four women barristers wear in court the same kind of wigs and gowns as are worn by men.

Tunney says he will not marry until he quits fighting, being evidently under the impression that married life is a peaceful pursuit.

SIDELIGHTS

Western civilization appears to be a too strenuous proposition for Jiddu Krishnamurti, Hindu Messiah who has been touring the United States. The strain of travel and public appearances has caused a breakdown of his health and physicians have ordered him into seclusion to recuperate.

Two famed ecclesiastics, Dean Inge of St. Paul's in London, and the Bishop of Liverpool, have both recently declared against the doctrine of eternal punishment. The Bishop says that "the crudity of the old pictures of bliss and torment shock us, and we are well rid of this teaching." A good many people live in the hope that the terrors of the hereafter have been considerably exaggerated.

Press dispatches report that "Scarface" Al Capone and other Chicago underworld leaders have signed a local Locarno pact, agreeing not to assassinate each other. Capone told reporters that rival gangsters had decided that there was business enough for all, and that further killings were unnecessary. It is assumed that the gunmen will now devote all their attention to the general public.

Another bit of good news from Chicago is to the effect that "Three Fingered Pete" Kosinski, liquor gangster, was blown to pieces by the premature detonation of explosives he was carrying. Pete had a long career of safe blowing and allied crimes, which thus came to a sudden end, happily for the rest of the community.

From the far-off Mediterranean island of Sardinia comes word of militant womanhood arrayed against male persecution. Charging discrimination because of sex on the part of professors in the Science College of Sassari, who flunked all but three girls out of a class of seventy-one, the young ladies proceeded to soundly box the ears of the said professors in the public square of the town.

School children of Uniontown, Pennsylvania, were temporarily jubilant when school teachers were forbidden to whip pupils without the written consent of the parents. The youngsters' tune changed when it developed that not only was permission for punishment freely given, but that an extra whaling usually awaited them at home.

Many of Uncle Sam's naturalized immigrants have risen to high estates, and such may be the good fortune of Atostolos Tavalioscoulos Panagiotakogoules, recently admitted to full citizenship. The Boston Traveler expresses the hope, for his sake, that he does not rise to be secretary of the treasury and have to sign his name to Liberty Bonds and the like.

Old Silas Grump, the sage of Shirt-tail Canyon, says: "There's little use in tryin' to get out o' debt so long as your wife has a charge account at th' most exclusive store in town."

Sammy Simpkins says: "If you would gather sunbeams from out the skies of blue, yourself must scatter sunshine, it will be reflected back to you."

A Pittsburg man found his wife's ring in his trousers pocket, but little else.

We have seen no suggestion that the five day week is to be extended to housewives.

PREVENTIVE DENTISTRY

By Dr. W. J. Lantheaume, Surgeon Dentist, 6276 Mission Street.

Milk Teeth, Baby Teeth, Temporary Teeth, Deciduous Teeth

These are synonyms (mean the same thing.) Get this point well fixed in your mind: "Baby teeth" are important; very much so, and I want you to know that the permanent teeth, so-called second teeth, are perfect only in direct proportion to the perfection of the "baby teeth."

Neglect, lack of hygiene, improper diet and rest, of mother and child cause serious disturbances in the development of the tooth germ.

Neglect causes reparative work and early extraction; hinders normal eruption of the permanent or second teeth, and this in turn causes crooked teeth, mutilation of the arch alignment, and destroys the normal harmony relative to the lower arches (jaws.) Consider the cause (neglect), the result, (normal tooth harmony and function destroyed), the effect, (a bluish, harmful to the success of the individual so affected; personality, character, poise, impaired.) Articulate speech and action are our tools for conveying mental gymnastics to others. Remember, success is dependable only through contact with others, and being able to suit or fit a desired environment. The above, (personality, character, poise), draw friends and make acquaintances possible. Clarity of thought and speech is the forerunner to success. They make dreams, inspiration and ambition realities. I ask you this question, why do we propagate the race (have children)? Now I'll answer my own question: Because, first it is a law of nature, a natural law of life. But remember, just having new life doesn't finish the job. It requires much effort, energy, action, and untiring determination to give these new atoms of life love, happiness, contentment, success. Give them more than we have derived from life.

Lack of hygiene: Common ordinary laziness. This needs no explanation. Dirt harbors disease. Cleanliness, wholesomeness. Cleanliness costs nothing. Water, air, sunshine, we can have for the getting. Water cleans teeth as well as the skin. The method of application needs no consideration. Water is everywhere. Air—well, just breathe, that's all. Sunshine—that's easy too; get out of the shade.

Improper diet and rest. Don't eat this; eat this; you'll get fat; you'll get thin. How often have you heard so many don'ts and do's. Listen! Give your system the variety of natural foods it craves for—sixteen elements of nature daily. Variety, get it? The spice of life. Vegetables, greens, plenty of water, meat, potatoes, anything you fancy, eat it. Only variety. Keep your mind happy with an uplifting philosophy of life, and watch your troubles melt.

Now, for some more about teeth. Chemically teeth are composed almost entirely of inorganic salts. Where do we get material for teeth? Note: From food stuffs containing inorganic salts. Simple enough. Mothers! feed yourself, treat yourself and children to nature's abundance in variety of plain foods. Sixteen elements daily. I admit that all of us heed and absorb about as efficiently as water on a duck's back. But we are all human, learning every day. Learning that the more we study, the less we know—or better, the more we live, we should learn to live.

The Daly City Record is the voice. It can shout, yell, but if you do not lend willing ears, the yell is unheard. It is your paper and offers its fullest co-operation. I am only one individual with a few ideas, but the sequence of the undertaking is just this: Suppose that many individuals, a few ideas apiece, mass themselves in unity, and you, the people with ideas, unite and co-operate. Enough said. In unity there is strength. One drop of water is individualistic; unity of many drops makes oceans.

The classes of Miss McLean and Miss Maxine Mills were delighted with the little red chairs for the use of the primaries. The Community service anticipates the pleasure of having these talented ladies again next service, Sunday, November 14, at 8 p. m.
